It, ce, il, elle; le, la.

C'est le Pronom dont les Anglois se servent ordinairement, au lieu des Pronoms Personnels, quand on parle des Choses Inanimées, & des Bêtes mêmes dont la difference du Sexe nous est peu connue. Exemple, That's it I fear, c'est ce que je crain. It is the Custom, c'est la Coutume.

Is it done? est il fait? est elle faite?

It rains il pleut, it snows il neige, it thunders il tonne, it lightens il fait des éclairs.

Give it him, donnez le lui, donnez la lui.

I take it, je le pren, je la pren.

Il est vrai, que souvent on se sert de It, quand on parle d'un petit Enfant.

Comme, don't wake the Child, 'tis fast asleep, n'éveillez pas l'Enfant, il est fort endormi.

D'ailleurs il faut remarquer, que le Verbe Impersonnel It is se dit indifferemment des Hommes & des Femmes.

Exemple, It is my Father, c'est mon Pere. It is my Mother, c'est ma Mere.

Et en ce Sens les Anglois font souvent une Elision de l'i.

Comme en ces Exemples, 'tis high time, il en est bien tems. 'Twould be very strange, cela seroit fort étrange.

En fin, ce Mot, étant accompagné d'une Preposition, se rend souvent de cette manière.

Comme,

I got six pence for it, j'en ai eu six sous.

I got nothing by it, je n'y ai rien gagné.

Let him look to it, qu'il y prenne garde.

Jurisprudence, the knowlege of the Law, Jurisprudence.

Juror, or Jurour, one of the Jury sworn, un des douze (ou des vingt-quatre) Jurez.

Jury, les Jurez.

Jury signifies a Company of Men, as twenty four or twelve, sworn to deliver a Truth upon such Evidence as shall be delivered them, touching the Matter in question, on appelle Jurez douze ou vingt-quatre Hommes, choisis pour juger d'un Fait sur la Deposition des Temoins, & à qui l'on fait prêter Serment pour cet effet.

Car en Angleterre les Jurez jugent du Fait & du fond de la Chose, & les Juges Royaux ne jugent que du Droit. C'est le Cherif de la Province qui choisit les Jurez; & par les Loix de l'Etat, ils doivent être gens de bonne Réputation, pris du Voisinage. Après avoir ouï les Temoins en public devant tout l'Auditoire, ils se retirent dans une Antichambre, pour juger du Fait entr'eux. Des qu'ils sont tombez d'accord, ils se représentent en Cour, & le Chef des Jurez declare leur Jugement, en prononçant l'Accusé Coupable, ou Innocent. S'il est déclaré Innocent, il est quitte. Mais, s'il est déclaré Coupable, c'est à faire au Juge à prononcer la Sentence, & la Punition que les Loix portent en tel Cas.

The Use of Juries, in the Trying of Causes, both Civil and Criminal, is a great Advantage, singular to these Nations. It is commonly supposed to be derived from the Saxons and Britains, confirmed to England by William the Conquerour. This Custom of ending Causes appertains to most Courts of the Common Law; but it is most notorious in the half Year Courts of the Justices Errants, commonly called the Great Assises, and in the Quarter-Sessions, where it is most ordinarily called a Jury.

In the General Assise, there are usually many Juries, because there be Store of Causes, both Civil and Criminal, commonly to be tried; whereof one is called the Grand Jury, and the rest Petty Juries.

The Grand Jury consist ordinarily of Twenty four grave and substantial Gentlemen, or some of the better sort of Yeomen, chosen indifferently by the Sheriff out of the whole Shire, to consider of all Bills of Inditement preferred to the Court; which they do either approve by writing upon them Billa vera, or disallow by Indorsing Ignoramus. Such as they do approve, if they touch Life and Death, are further referred to any other Jury to be considered of, because the Case is of such Importance. But others of lighter moment are, upon their Allowance, fined by the Bench. Except the Party traverse the Inditement, or challenge it for Insufficiency, or remove the Cause to a Court by Certiorari; In which two former Cases it is referred to another Jury, and in the latter transmitted to a higher. Now, upon the allowance of this Bill by the Grand Inquest, a Man is said to be Indited. Such as they disallow are delivered to the Bench, by whom they are forthwith cancelled or torn.

The Petty Jury consists of Twelve Men at the least, and are Impannelled as well upon Criminal as upon Civil Causes. Those that pass upon Offences of Life and Death do bring in their Verdict either Guilty, or not Guilty. Whereupon the Prisoner, if he be found Guilty, is said to be Convicted, and so afterward receiveth his Judgement and Condemnation; if not Guilty, he is Acquitted, and set free.

Those that pass upon Civil Causes real are all, or so many as can conveniently be had, of the same Hundred, where the Land or Tenement in question doth lie, being four at the least. And they, upon due Examination, bring in their Verdict, either for the Demandant or Tenant.

To do Justice, to see that every one have Justice done him, faire bonne Justice, rendre Justice à tout le monde.

To fall into the hands of Justice, tomber entre les mains de la Justice.

To resign up one into the hands of Justice, abandonner quécun au pouvoir de la Justice.

A Justice of the Peace, Juge (ou Justicier) de Paix. C'est une sorte de Magistrature, établie dans les grandes Villes, & autres Communautés, pour maintenir la Paix, & pour connoître des Desordres, & des Infractions des Loix. C'est à ces Juges que l'on s'adresse en ce Cas, & que les Commetables (ou Commissaires du Quartier) mènent les Personnes suspectes de quèque Crime, ou prises en flagrant Delit, pour être procédé contre eux suivant les Loix.

These Justices were called Guardians of the Peace, till the 36th. Year of Edward III, at which time they began to be called Justices. They are appointed, by the King's Commission, to attend the Peace of the Corporation, Town, City, and County where they dwell. Of whom some, upon special respect, are made of the Quorum, because some Business of Importance may not be dispatched, without the presence or assent of them, or one of them. Thus, where a Commission is directed to seven Persons, or to any three of them. Whereof A. B. and C. D. to be two; there A. B. and C. D. are said to be of the Quorum, because the rest cannot proceed without them. So a Justice of the Peace and Quorum is one, without whom the rest of the Justices in some Cases cannot proceed.

The Lord Chief Justice, le Chef de Justice.

There are two Lords Chief Justices, the one of the King's Bench, and the other of the Common Pleas. But the first, who is otherwise called the Lord Chief Justice of England, is the chief of all. His Office especially is to hear and determine all Pleas of the Crown, viz. such as concern Offences committed against the Crown, Dignity, and Peace of the King, as Treasons, Felonies, Misdemeanours, and the like. He also, with his Assistants, heareth all personal and real Actions that are incident to his Jurisdiction. This Justice has no Patent under the Great Seal, but is made by Writ, in this short form.

Rex, &c. M. H. Salutem, Scitis quod Constitutus Vos Justiciarium nostrum Capitalem, ad Placita coram Nobis tenenda, durante Beneplacito nostro. Teste, &c.

The other Chief Justice is also a Lord by his Office. He, together with his Assistants, does hear and determine all Causes at the Common Law, that is all Civil Causes between common Persons, as well personal as real. Therefore it is called the Court of Common Pleas, as differencing it from the Pleas of the Crown, or the King's Pleas.

But, besides these Justices, there are the Justices of Assise, who twice every Year go the Circuit, by two and two, through all England, dispatching their several Commissions. For they have one Commission to take Assises, another to deliver Goals, Goals, another of Oyer and Terminer, &c. So that these Justices are now Authorized to do that wholly, which was distinctly performed by several Justices; As particularly Justices of Assize, for taking Assizes; Justices of Gaol-Delivery, for hearing and determining all Causes appertaining to such as for any Offence were cast into Gaol; Justices of Oyer and Terminer, who had Commissions given them upon some special or extraordinary Occasion, as upon any unlawfull great Assembly, Insurrections, hainous Misdemeanours, or Trespases Committed.

There were also in former times another Sort of Justices, called Justices in Eyre. Who were sent with Commission into divers Counties, to hear such Causes especially as were termed Pleas of the Crown. Which was done for the Ease of the People; who must else have been hurried to the King's Bench, if the Cause were too high for the County-Court. They differed from the Justices of Oyer and Terminer, in these two several Respects. For, whereas these Justices were sent upon one or few special Causes, and that but to one Place; the Justices in Eyre were sent through the Provinces and Counties of the Land, with more indefinite and general Commission. And again, the Justices of Oyer and Terminer were sent uncertainly upon an Uproar or other Occasion, in the Country; but these in Eyre were sent (according to some Authors) but once in seven Years. To be short, these Justices of Eyre resembled in some respect our Justices of Assize at present; though very much differing in their Authority and Manner of Proceeding.

As for the Justices in Eyre of the Forest, otherwise called Justices of the Forest, they are still in being, and may be called in French Seigneurs Forestiers. There are Two of these Justices, whereof one hath Jurisdiction over all Forests on this side Trent, the other of all beyond. Each of 'em is a Lord by his Office, and hears and determines within his Jurisdiction all Offences committed against Vert or Venison. And, whereas all other Justices, having their Authority by Deputation, as Delegates to the King, and not Jure Magistratus, therefore cannot depute others in their stead; the Justice of the Forest may appoint a Deputy, by the Statute of 32. H. 8. 35. The Court where this Justice sits and determines is called the Justice-Seat of the Forest; and it is held once every three Years.

The Justices of Nisi prius are at this time much like the Justices of Assize. For it is a common Adjournment of a Cause in the Common Pleas, to put it off to such a Day, Nisi prius Justiciarii venerint ad eas Partes ad capiendas Assisas. And, upon this Clause of Adjournment, they are called Justices of Nisi prius, as well as Justices of Assize, by reason of the Writ or Action that they have to deal in. But there is this Difference between them in their Commission, That Justices of Assize have Power to give Judgement in a Cause; but Justices of Nisi prius, only to take the Verdict. And, in the Nature of both their Functions, this seems to be the greatest Difference, that Justices of Nisi prius have to deal in Causes personal, as well as real; whereas Justices of Assize, in strict acception, meddle only with the possessory Writs called Assize.

What remains is to give an Account of three other Sorts of Justices, now disused; viz. Justices of Labourers, Justices of the Pavilion, and Justices of Trail-Baston.

Justices of Labourers were Justices heretofore appointed to redress the Forwardness of Labouring Men, that would either be Idle, or have unreasonable Wages.

Justices of the Pavilion were certain Judges of a Pie-powder Court, of a most transcendent Jurisdiction. Anciently authorized by the Bishop of Winchester, at a Fair held on St. Giles Hills near that City, by virtue of Letters Patent, granted by King Edward IV.

Justices of Trail-Baston were a kind of Justices appointed by King Edward I. upon occasion of great Disorders grown in the Realm, during his Absence in the Scotch or French Wars. They were in a manner Justices in Eyre, and their Office was to make Inquisition through the Realm, by the Verdict of Substantial Juries, upon all Officers, as Mayors, Sheriffs, Bailiffs, E'cheators, and others touching Extortion, Bribery, and other such Grievances.

The Lord Keeper, or the Keeper of the Great Seal, le Garde du Grand Seau.

The Lord Keeper is the same in effect as the Lord High Chancellor, and the Difference lies only in the Title. For he has the same Place, Authority, Preeminence, Jurisdiction, Execution of Laws, and all other Customs, Commodities, and Advantages, as the Lord Chancellor.

Through his hands pass all Charters, Commissions, and Grants of the King, under the Great Seal; without which Seal all such Instruments by Law are of no force. For the King is, in the Sense of the Law, a Corporation; and passeth nothing firmly but under the said Seal, which is as the publick Faith of the Kingdom, in the high esteem and reputation justly attributed thereto. The said Lord Keeper is constituted, by the Delivery of the Great Seal to him, and taking his Oath. He is, by his Place, one of the Privy Council.

The Keeper of the Privy Seal, le Garde du petit Seau.

This Keeper was anciently called The Clerk of the Privy Seal. Now he is a Lord by his Office, of the King's Privy Council, and one of the great Officers of the Kingdom. Knite. It signifies a Person that beareth Arms; who, for his Virtue, and specially Martial Prowess, is, by the King, or one having the King's Authority, singled from the ordinary sort of Gentlemen, and raised to a higher Step of Dignity. This, amongst all Nations, takes his Name from the Horse, because in ancient Times they served in the War on horseback. The Romans called them Equites, the Italians Cavalieri, the French Chevaliers, the Germans Reyters, the Spaniards Gavalleros. Anciently a Gentleman having a full Knights Fee, and holding his Land by Knights Service, might be urged by Distress to procure himself to be made Knight, when he came to full Age. But, by the Statute 17. Car. 1. Cap. 20. it is Ordained, That no Man shall be compelled to take the Order of Knighthood. The Way of making Knights is thus. The Party falls upon his Knees before the King, and his Majesty drawing his Sword does lightly strike him with the Sword upon his Shoulder, with these Words spoken in French, Sois Chevalier au Nom de Dieu.

It signifies a Person that beareth Arms; who, for his Virtue, and specially Martial Prowess, is, by the King, or one having the King's Authority, singled from the ordinary sort of Gentlemen, and raised to a higher Step of Dignity. This, amongst all Nations, takes his Name from the Horse, because in ancient Times they served in the War on horseback. The Romans called them Equites, the Italians Cavalieri, the French Chevaliers, the Germans Reyters, the Spaniards Gavalleros. Anciently a Gentleman having a full Knights Fee, and holding his Land by Knights Service, might be urged by Distress to procure himself to be made Knight, when he came to full Age. But, by the Statute 17. Car. 1. Cap. 20. it is Ordained, That no Man shall be compelled to take the Order of Knighthood. The Way of making Knights is thus. The Party falls upon his Knees before the King, and his Majesty drawing his Sword does lightly strike him with the Sword upon his Shoulder, with these Words spoken in French, Sois Chevalier au Nom de Dieu.

A Knight of the Garter, un Chevalier de la Jarretiere.

The Institution of this Order, by King Edward the Third, you have under the Word Garter. To which I shall add, that the said King, for furnishing of this honourable Order, made a Choice out of his own Realm, and all Christendom, of the best and most renowned Persons in Virtue and Honour; bestowing this Dignity upon them, together with a blue Garter, a Kirtle, Crown, Cloke, Chaperon, a Collar, and other statly and magnificent Apparel. The Garter decked with Gold, Pearl, and precious Stones, with a Buckle of Gold, to wear daily on the left Leg only. Of this Order He and his Successors, Kings of England, were ordained Sovereigns, and the rest Fellows and Brethren, to the Number of Twenty six. The Institution of this Order, by King Edward the Third, you have under the Word Garter. To which I shall add, that the said King Fests and Installation; the Usher of the Garter, who is also the Usher of the Black Rod.

The Seat of this Colledge is the Castle of Windsor, with S. George's Chappel, erected by Edward the Third, and the Chapter-House in the said Castle. Their Solemnity is upon S. George's Day, the 23d. of April; upon which Day both Charles II. and the present King were Crowned.

This Order received great Ornament from King Edward the Fourth. And that most pious Prince Charles the I, as an Addition to their Splendour, Ordered all the Companions of the Order to wear on the left side of their upper Garment, the Cross of England incircled with the Garter and Motto; from whence round about are cast Beams of Silver, like the Rays of the Sun in full lustre.

Knight Baronet, Chevalier Baronet.

☞ This is a Dignity, or Degree of Honour, next to Barons, erected by King James, Anno 1611.

Knight Baneret. This is a Knight made in the Field, with the Ceremony of cutting off the point of his Standard, and making it (as it were) a Banner. An Order accounted so honourable, that they are allowed to display their Arms in the Field in the King's Army, as Barons do. Camden speaks of them in these Words, Loco supra citato, Banereti, cum Vassalorum Nomen jam desierat, à Baronibus secundis erant, quibus inditum Nomen à Vexillo. Concessum illis erat, militaris Virtutis ergo, quadrato Vexillo (perinde ac Baronibus) uti, unde Equites Vexillarii à nullis vocantur, &c.

Knight Bachelor, that is a simple Knight, Chevalier Bachelier.

Knights of the Chamber, Chevaliers de la Chambre.

☞ They seem to be such Knights Bachelours as are made in Time of Peace, because Knighted commonly in the King's Chamber; and not in the Field, as in Time of War.

Knight of the Bath, Chevalier du Bain.

☞ This is an Order of Knights, made within the Lifts of the Bath, and girded with a Sword in the Ceremony of the Creation. They are so called, from Bathing, the Night before their Creation. They take place of Knights Bachelors, but come after Barons.

Knight Marshal. He is an Officer in the King's House, having Jurisdiction and Cognizance of any Transgression within the King's House and Verge; as also of Contracts made there, whereunto one of the House is Party.

Knight of the Shire, or Knight of the Parliament, is a Knight chosen by the Freeholders of the County, in pleno Comitatu.

☞ There are two of these Knights for every Shire, who must be either Knights, or other Gentlemen of Worth, resident in the County. When every Man that had a Knights Fee was constrained to be Knight, these Knights were then of necessity to be Milites Gladio cincti. But now Custom allows Esquires to be chosen to this Office, so that they be resident in the County.

Knight of the Hare, Chevalier du Lievre.

☞ Edward III. being entered France with an Army, Philip King of France met him, but declined Fighting. Upon which, a Hare, starting up before the head of his Army, caused them to make a great Shout. King Edward, supposing it to be the Onset of the Battel, put his Army in array, and for Encouragement Knighted fourteen Gentlemen; Who were afterwards, in Merriment, called the Knights of the Hare.

Knights of the Order of S. John of Jerusalem, Chevaliers de l'Ordre de S. Jean de Jerusalem.

☞ They were an Order of Knighthood, that began about the Year of our Lord 1120, Honorius being Pope. They had their Denomination from John, the charitable Patriarch of Alexandria, though vowed to S. John the Baptist, their Patron. They had their primary Abode in Jerusalem. In England they had one general Priour, that had the Government of the whole Order within England and Scotland. He was the first Priour of England, and sat in the House of Lords. But, towards the End of Henry the Eighth's Days, they in England and Ireland, being found overmuch to adhere with the Pope against the King, were suppressed, and their Lands and Goods given to the King.

This Order removed from Jerusalem to Rhodes, from whence they were called Knights of Rhodes. And they staid in this Island, till they were expelled thence by the Turks, Anno 1523. Since which time their chief Seat is in the Isle of Malta, whence they are now called Knights of Malta. Where they have done great Exploits against the Infidels, but specially in the Year 1595. They live after the Order of Friars, under the Rule of S. Augustine.

Knights of the Temple, otherwise called Templers, or Knights Templar, Chevaliers Templiers.

☞ This was an Order of Knighthood, Instituted by Pope Gelasius, about the Year of our Lord 1177; and so called, because they dwelt in a Part of the Building belonging to the Temple at Jerusalem, not far from our Lord's Sepulchre. They entertained Christian Strangers and Pilgrims charitably, and in their Armour led them through the Holy Land, to view the sacred Monuments of Christianity, without fear of Infidels.

This Order, increasing and continuing by the Space of 200. Years, was far spread in Christendom, and namely here in England. But in process of time some of them at Jerusalem being found (as some report) to fall away to the Saracens, or rather because they grew too potent, the whole Order was suppressed by Pope Clement V. Anno 1309, and by the Council of Vienna 1312. Their Substance was given, partly to the Knights of S. John of Jerusalem, and partly to other Religious.

They had in every Nation a particular Governour. The Master of the Temple here was summoned to Parliament; and the chief Minister of the Temple-Church in London is still called Master of the Temple.

A Knight errant, Chevalier errant.

A Knight of the round Table, Paladin, Chevalier errant de la Table ronde.

Knight of the Post, one that may be hired to swear against his Conscience, un faux Temoin, un Temoin qui se prête pour jurer contre sa Conscience.

Knight, (a Sea-Term) a piece of Timber commonly shaped to the form and likeness of some Head, Tête de Moré, Bloc, (en Termes de Mer.)

There are two Knights in a Ship, the main Knight, and the fore-Knight. And they are Pieces of Timber, where go four Shivers, three for the Halliards, and one for the Top-ropes.

Knights Fee, le Bien d'un Chevalier, tout autant de Biens de Terre qui pouvoient suffire à l'Entretien d'un Chevalier.

☞ A Knights Fee is so much Inheritance as is sufficient Yearly to maintain a Knight with convenient Revenue. Which in Henry the Third's Days was 15. Pounds. And, by the Statute for Knights Anno 1 E. 2. Cap. 1. such as had 20. pounds in Fee, or for Term of Life, must be compelled to be Knights. But this Statute was repealed in the Reign of Charles I.

Some say, there were found in England, at the Time of the Conquerour, 60211. Knights Fees; others say 60215. Whereof the Religious Houses, before their Suppression, were possessed of 28015.

Knights Fee is sometime used for the Rent that a Knight pays for his Fee to his Lord, of whom he holdeth. But this was uncertain.

Knight-Service. So was called a Tenure, whereby a Man was bound to bear Arms in War, for defence of the Realm. But the same was taken away in the late Reiga.

Livery of Seisin, or delivery of Possession, l'action de mettre quelqu'un en possession.

Livery of Seisin is a Delivery of Possession of Lands or Tenements, or other Things Corporeal, to one that hath a Right, or a probability of Right to them.

There be two kinds of it, viz. a Livery in Deed, and a Livery in Law.

The first is, when the Feoffor takes the Ring of the Door, or a Turf (or Twig) of the Land, and delivers the same to the Feoffee, in the Name of Seisin of the Land.

The other is, when the Feoffor faith to the Feoffee, being in view of the House or Land, I give to you yonder Land, to You and your Heirs, therefore enter into the same, and take possession there accordingly.

Which Ceremony is used, by the Common Law, in the Conveyance of Lands, or Tenements, &c. where an Estate in Fee-simple, Fee-tail, or a Free-hold shall pass; as a Testimonial of the willing Departing of him who makes the Livery from the Thing whereof Livery is made, and of a willing Acceptance of the other Party upon his receiving of the Livery.

Now this was invented, that the common People might have knowledge of the passing or alteration of Estates from Man to Man; that thereby they might be the better able to try in whom the Right of Possession of Lands and Tenements were, if they should be Impannelled in Juries, or otherwise have to do concerning the same.

But the Word Livery is also used, to express the Writ which lies for the Heir, to obtain the Possession or Seisin of his Land at the King's hands.

Living, (from the Verb to Live) vie, l'action de vivre; Bien, Biens, Substance, tout le Bien qu'on possède; Benefice, Charge Ecclesiastique.

As, a good Living, bonne vie. To be weary of living, être las de vivre.

To scamble away his Living, or Substance, depenser (dissiper) son Bien.

As soon as this thy Son was come, which has devoured thy Living with Harlots, thou hast killed for him the fatted Calf, (Luke 15. 30.) quand celui ci, qui a mangé ton Bien avec les Paillardes, est venu, tu lui as tué le Veau gras.

To have a good Living, avoir un bon Benefice.

Or thus. As, what d'ye save, by living thus? qu'épargnez vous, en vivant comme vous faites?

Living, (Adj.) vivant, qui vit, qui est en vie.

He is yet living, il vit encore.

A living Dog is better than a dead Lion, (Prov.) un Chien vivant vaut mieux qu'un Lion mort.

Or thus. As, a living Creature, un Animal.

I defy any Man living to do it, je defie tout Homme de le faire.

Living, (Subst.) Vivant.

As, the Living and the Dead, les Vivans & les Morts.

The Land of the Living, la Terre des Vivans.

Lizard, a green sort of Serpent, Lizard, sorte de petit Serpent verd.

A Lizard is a little Beast, much like our Ever, and without Poison, breeding in Italy and other hot Countries. Whole Dung is good to take away Spots in the Eye, and clear the Sight; and its Head being bruised and laid to, draws out Thorns, or any Thing sticking in the flesh.

Lollards, sorte de Secte, qui étoit fort nombreuse du tems d'Edouard III. & de Henri V.

The Lollards were so called (says Trithemius) from one Walter Lollard, a German, the first Author of that Sect, about the Year of our Lord 1315. They were then called Hereticks, and they abounded here in England in the Days of Edward III. and Henry V; whereof Wickliff was the chief, as Stow says in his Annals. Against these Thomas Arundel, Arch-bishop of Canterbury, in a Council at Oxford, made several Decrees. And the high Sheriff of every County was, by his Oath, bound to suppress them. The Statute made against them, in the Reign of Henry V, which represented them as Men whose Intent was to subvert the Christian Faith, the Law of God, the Church, and the Realm, was repealed under the Reign of Edward VI.

Till then the Word Lollard was used, it seems, as a generical Name, to signify Men who, in their Opinions, opposed the settled Religion of the Land.

Or thus. As, in the Year of our Lord, l'An de Grâce.

Lord is a Word of Honour, which is diversely used. Sometimes it is attributed to Men noble by Birth, or Creation, as the Peers, or Lords of Parliament. Sometimes to those that be so called by the Courtesy of England; as all the Sons of a Duke, and the eldest Sons of Earls. Sometimes to Men honourable by Office; as a Lord Chief Justice, &c; and sometime to a mean Man that hath Fee, and so consequently the Homage of Tenants within his Mannour. In which last Signification it is most commonly used by the Writers of the Law, and divided into Lord Paramount and Lord Meise.

We read likewise of very Lord, and very Tenant. The first is He which is immediate Lord to his Tenant, and very Tenant he that holds immediately of that Lord. So that, if there be Lord Paramount, Lord Meise, and Tenant, the Lord Paramount is not very Lord to the Tenant, nor the Tenant very Tenant to him.

Lord in grosse. Tis he that is Lord, having no Mannor; as the King, in respect of his Crown. But there is also a Case, wherein a private Man is Lord in gros. As, when a Man makes a Gift in Tail of all the Land he hath, to hold of him, and dieth, his Heir hath but a Seignior in gros.

Magna Charta, la grande Charte, que Henri III. accorda à ses Sujets la neuvième Année de son Règne, & qui contient les grands Privileges de la Nation Angloise.

So is called the Great Charter, which was granted by Henry the Third to the People of England, afterwards confirmed by Edward the First. The Reason why it was termed Magna Charta was, either for that it contained the Sum of all the Liberties of England; Or else, because there was another Charter, called Charta de Foresta, established with it, which was the less of the two. Otherwise it might be so called, for that it contained more than many other Charters, or more than that of King Henry the First; Or, because of the great and remarkable Solemnity in the denouncing Excommunication and direfull Anathema's against the Infringers of it. King John, to appease his Barons, yielded to Laws or Articles of Government much like to this great Charter. But this is now the most ancient written Law. Which was thought to be so beneficial to the Subject, and a Law of so great Equity, in comparison of those which were formerly in use, that King Henry, for the granting it, had the fifteenth Penny of all the Movable Goods, both of the Spirituality and Temporality throughout the Realm. And yet this is the Magna Charta, which the pretender Protector of the People of England, when he had got the Power into his hands, used to call by derision Magna Farta.

Man is a rational Creature, l'Homme est une Creature raisonnable.

Adam was the first Man, and the Father of us all, Adam a été le premier Homme, il est le Pere de nous tous.

I believe God made Man, but I cannot believe that Man can make his God, je croi bien que Dieu a fait l'Homme, mais je ne saurois croire que l'Homme puisse faire son Dieu.

God made other Creatures for Mans Service, and Man for his own, Them for our Use, and Us for his Glory, Dieu a fait les autres Creatures pour le Service de l'Homme, & l'Homme pour son Service, Celles là pour notre Usage, & Nous pour sa Gloire.

Man purposes, but God disposes, l'Homme propose, & Dieu dispose.

A Young man, un Jeune homme. An Old man, un vieux homme, un Vieillard.

When I became a Man, I put away childish Things, (1 Cor. 13. 11.) quand je suis devenu Homme, j'ai aboli ce qui étoit de l'Enfance.

What do I see there? a Man, or a Woman? que vois je là? un Homme, ou une Femme?

A Man of straw is worth a Woman of gold, un Homme de paille vaut une Femme d'or.

[Tis observable, that, amongst our ancient Saxons, the Word Mon or Man, signified (as Homo, in Latine) both Man and Woman. But, for distinction of Sexes, they called a Man Weapon-Man, i. Hominem Armatum (Membro scilicet virili;) and a Woman, Womb-man, (i. Hominem Uterinam), whence by Contraction Woman. A married Woman they called Wife-man; and a Virgin, Maiden-Man.]

Man and Wife, Mari & Femme.

They ly together, as Man and Wife, ils couchent ensemble, comme Mari & Femme.

He is grown a Man, c'est un Homme fait.

To shew himself a Man, faire voir qu'on a a du Cœur, montrer qu'on est Homme de cœur, se montrer courageux.

To live like a Man, vivre en bonnête Homme.

To do a Man a Courtesy, rendre un bon Office à quécun, faire une Faveur, ou une Amistie à quécun.

Where is my Man? où est mon Valet?

My Man is gone away from me, mon Valet m'a quitté.

A Coal-man, un Vendeur de Charbon, un Charbonnier.

An Oyfter-man, Vendeur d'Ecailles, ou Vendeur d'Huitres à l'Ecailles.

A Man of War, un Vaisseau de Guerre. A Merchant Man, un Vaisseau Marchand.

I take this Man, je vous pren cette Dame.

Or thus. As Jos. 17. 1. Machir was a Man of War, Makir étoit un Homme belliqueux.

And 1 Sam. 17. 33. Thou art but a Youth, and He a Man of War from his Youth, Tu n'es qu'un jeune Garçon, & Lui est guerrier des sa Jeunesse.

He is an ill-contrived Man, c'est un Esprit mal tourné.

To come to a Mans estate, parvenir à l'Age viril.

To be his own Man, être à soi, se servir soi même.

So as a Man might easily perceive, si bien qu'on pourroit aisément s'apercevoir.

If a man may ask you, what had you to do with her? par votre permission, qu'aviez vous à faire avec elle?

But what should a Man do in such a Case? mais que faire en ce Cas?

This is the manner of the Man, c'est ainsi qu'il est fait.

This was never heard of by Men, c'est une chose dont on n'avoit jamais ouï parler.

This Report went from Man to Man, le Bruit passa de l'un à l'autre.

Man by Man, par tête. The Booty was divided Man by Man, chacun eut sa part du Butin.

So much a man, tant par tête.

Do what I bid you, and I shall make ye a Man, faites ce que je vous dis, & je ferai votre Fortune.

A Man, or a Mouse, coute, ou rien.

If any man call, bid him stay, si quécun me demande, faites le demeurer.

I love him beyond any Man, je l'aime plus que quic que ce soit, je l'aime par dessus tout le reste des Hommes.

There's no man alive that will undertake it, il n'y a personne qui veuille l'entreprendre.

I am the Man that did it, c'est Moi qui l'ai fait.

Had he any Thing of a Man in him, s'il avoit tant soit peu de courage, ou de résolution.

I like the Man well enough, il me plaît assez, il me revient assez.

He is the chief Man, il est le Chef. The good Man of the House, le Maître de Ceans.

To study Men, etudier le Monde. They are strange Men, ce sont d'étranges Gens.

The Men of a Ship, l'Equipage d'un Navire, ou les Gens de l'Equipage.

The Ship is lost, but all her Men are saved, le Vaisseau est perdu, mais tout l'Equipage s'est sauvé.

And now I shall observe to ye, that 'tis usual in French to render the Word Man with the Epithet adjoining to it, in one Word.

As, he is an ungratefull Man, c'est un Ingrat; a perfidious Man, un Perfide; a profligate Man, un Scelerat; a prophane Man, un Prophane, &c.

Accordingly you must say the Wife Man, le Sage.

A Man-Servant, un Valet, un Serviteur. A Man-child, un Garçon, un Enfant mâle.

A Man-slayer, un Meurtrier, un Homicide. Man-slaughter, See Manslaughter.

to Man, faire l'Equipage; mettre Garnison; dresser.

As, to Man a Ship, faire l'Equipage d'un Navire, y mettre des Matelots & Soldats.

To man (or garrison) a Town, mettre une Garnison dans une Place.

To man a Hawk, dresser un Faucon.

to Manacle, mettre des Menottes.

As, to manacle a Malefactor, to clap Manacles to his hands, mettre des Menottes (ou des Fers) aux mains d'un Criminel.

Manacled, qui a les Menottes aux mains.

Manacles, or Hand-fetters, Manicles, Menottes, les Fers qu'on met aux Mains d'un Prisonnier.

Huge Manacles, de grosses Menottes.

Manage, Manage; ménagement.

A fine Manage, or Place for riding the great Horse, un beau Manège.

The Manage of a Concern, le Ménagement d'une Affaire.

to Manage, ménager, conduire, manier; faire faire le Manège.

As, to manage a Business with a great deal of Discretion, ménager une Affaire (la conduire) avec esprit.

He has managed that Concern very prudently, il a conduit (il a manie) cette Affaire avec bien de la prudence.

To managé a Horse, faire faire le Manège à un Cheval.

Manchild. See Man-child, under Man.

Manciple, a Caterer in Colleges in the Universities, Pourvoyeur, le Pourvoyeur d'un Collège, Celui qui fait la Provision.

The Steward of the Temple was also called anciently by this Name. Of whom the ancient Poet of this Nation, Jeffrey Chaucer, sometimes a Student there, thus writes;

A Manciple there was in the Temple,

Of which all Catours might take enemble.

Mancusa, ancienne Monnoie, qui valoit environ treize Chelins quatre Sols.

This Coin, as well as Manca afore said, was current under the Reign of King Canute. Called Mancusa, in Canutus his Laws, quasi manu cusa. The Value thereof was as much as a Mark of Silver, that is thirteen Shillings four pence.

Mandamus, a sort of Writ, un Mandat, un Mandement, un Ordre.

Mandamus is a Writ that lieth after the Year and Day, when in the mean time the Writ called Diem clausit extremum has not been sent out to the Escheatour for the same purpose for which it should have been sent forth.

Mandamus is also a Charge to the Sheriff, to take into the King's hands all the Lands and Tenements of the King's Widow, that, against her Oath formerly given, marieth without the King's Consent.

A Mandamus of the King to the Heads of a College, des Lettres du Roi aux Gouverneurs d'un Collège.

Mandatory, one that obtains a Benefice by Mandamus, Mandataire, Celui qui obtient un Benefice par un Mandat du Pape.

Mandate, un Mandat, un Mandement, un Ordre.

Mandate is a Commandment of the King, or his Justices, to have any Thing done for dispatch of Justice.

A Bishop's Mandate, un Mandement d'Evêque.

Mandible, or Jaw, Mâchoire.

Mandilion, a loose Calflock (such as Souldiers used to wear) Mandille, sorte de Casaque.

Mandrake, a sort of Plant, Mandragore, sorte de Plante.

Mandrake is a strange Plant, bearing ing yellow round Apples. Called Mandrake from the Greek μάνδρα, a Den, or Hole, because it uses to grow about Dens or Caves. The Root of it is great, and white like a Raddish root; and is divided into two, or more parts, growing sometimes like the Legs of a Man. This Root, especially its Bark, is extremely cold and dry, even to the fourth degree. It is therefore very dangerous to receive inwardly, for the least quantity too much will quickly kill a Man. Surgeons use to steep this Root in Wine, and give it to be drunk by such as they must cut, saw, or burn in any part. For its cold Operation causeth Sleep, and makes the Body insensible for a time. There are many false Conceits about this Plant, which you will find confuted in Dr. Brown's Vulgar Errors.

The Mandrakes mentioned Gen. 30. v. 14. and 15. were such Things as gave a pleasant Smell, the Hebrew Word intimating, that they were lovely or amiable.

Mane, Criniere.

As, the Mane of a Horse, la Criniere d'un Cheval. On appelle ainsi tous les Crins qui sont sur le haut & le long du Cou, & entre les deux Oreilles du Cheval.

A broad, or narrow Mane, Criniere large, ou etroite.

Manfull (from Man) that is stout, brave, digne d'un Homme de Cœur.

As, a manfull Act, une brave Action, une Action digne d'un Brave, ou d'un Homme de cœur.

Or thus. As, to have a manfull Look, avoir la mine d'un Brave, ou d'un Homme de cœur.

Manfully, en Brave, en Homme de cœur. He carried himself manfully, il s'est comporté en Brave.

To look manfully, avoir l'air (ou la mine) d'un Brave.

Manfulness, bravoure, courage, valeur.

He gave proofs of his Manfulness, il a donné des preuves de sa Valeur.

Mangling, l'action de dechirer, mettre en pieces, ou dechiqueter.

Mango, sorte de Fruit des Indes Orientales.

'Tis an East-India Fruit, of the bigness of an Apple; which, being pickled, is used as a Sallet, chiefly with rott Mut-ton, and does create an appetite.

Mangy, (from Mange) galeux, qui a la Gale, (comme un Chien).

This Dog is very mangy, ce Chien est bien galeux.

Manhood, (from Man) l'Age viril; virilité; bravoure, valeur, courage.

The next Age to Youth is Manhood, l'Age

viril suit immédiatement celui de la Jeunesse.

If she will but try my Manhood, si elle vouloit seulement faire essai de ma Virilité.

He has given signal proofs of his Manhood, il a donné des preuves signalées de sa Valeur.

to Manicle } See } to Manacle.
Manicled } Manacled.
Manicles } Manacles.

Manifested, or plain, manifeste, clair & connu.

As, 'tis a manifest Cheat, c'est une Tromperie manifeste.

Made manifest, manifesté.

As 2 Cor. 4. 10. that the Life of Jesus might be made manifest in our Body, afin que la Vie de Jesus soit manifestée en notre Corps.

to Manifest, or make manifest, manifeste, faire voir.

As, to manifest his Kindness, faire voir son Amitié.

Manifestation, or making manifest, manifestation.

Christ his Manifestation in our Flesh, la Maniere dont Christ s'est manifesté à nous, en prenant notre Chair.

Manifested, or made manifest, manifesté.

Manifestly, or clearly, manifestement, clairement, évidemment.

Or thus. As, we return thee our Thanks for thy manifold Mercies, nous te rendons nos Actions de grâces pour toutes tes Faveurs.

And Luke 18. v. 29. and 30. There is no man that has left House, or Parents, &c. who shall not receive manifold more in this present time, and in the World to come Life everlasting, il n'y a pas un qui ait abandonné sa Maison, ou ses Parents, &c. qui ne recoive beaucoup plus en ce tems ici, & au Siecle à venir la Vie éternelle.

Maniple, or Fannel, a Scarf-like Ornament worn about the left Wrist of Priests, Manipule, ou Fanon, maniere de petite Etole, que le Prêtre se met au Bras gauche, quand il s'habille pour dire la Messe.

A Roman Maniple, or Company of Soldiers under one Captain, Manipule, ou Compagnie d'Infanterie Romaine.

A maniple, or handfull, une poignée.

Mankind, (from Man) le Genre humain.

As, the Depravation of Mankind, la Depravation du Genre humain.

Manliness, or manly Look, mine (ou air) mâle.

Manly, mâle, d'homme.

He has a manly Look, il a la mine mâle.

She has a manly Voice, elle a une Voix d'Homme.

A manly Woman, une Hommalle.

Manna, or Hony-dew, Manne, sorte de Rosée.

Good Manna is white and sweet, la Manne pour être bonne, doit être blanche & douce.

Manna is a kind of Dew, sweet of Taste; which falling in hot Countries upon Trees and Herbs before break of Day, does there congeal, almost like Crums of white bread. 'Tis gathered, and choicely kept, as a gentle purger of Choler. The best comes from Calabria, in the Kingdom of Naples; where they gather it from the Leaves of the Mulberry-Tree.

The Manna wherewith God fed the Children of Israel was extraordinary, and proved a delicate Food. It fell from Heaven in manner of a Dew, white, and somewhat like Coriander-seed. Upon this Manna the Israelites lived forty Years in the Wilderness, till they came to the Borders of the Land of Canaan. At first sending hereof, the People were in such admiration, that they said each to other Manbu, i. e. What's this? Which seems to be the Cause why it was afterward called Manna.

Manned, (from the Verb to Man) armé de Gens de Navire & de Guerre.

As, a Ship well manned, un Navire bien armé de Gens de Navire & de Guerre.

A manned Hawk, un Faucon dressé.

Manner, maniere, sorte, façon.

As, I did it in this manner, or after this manner, je le fis de cette maniere.

He did it three manner of Ways, il le fit de trois differentes manieres.

After the manner of the Heathens, à la maniere des Payens.

He began to speak in this manner, il commença à parler de cette sorte.

What manner of Man is he? quelle sorte d'Homme est il?

I will have you do it after this manner, je veux que vous le fassiez de cette façon.

Or thus. As, this is the manner of the Man, c'est ainsi qu'il est fait.

In a manner, comme, par maniere de dire, presque.

We were in a manner lost, nous étions comme perdus.

My Life is in a manner spent, it is as good as spent, ma Vie est presque achevée.

In like manner, pareillement, semblablement, de même.

According to our accustomed manner, selon notre coutume.

Manners, (in the Plural) Mœurs.

As, we frame our Manners by those Persons we haunt, nous prenons les Mœurs de ceux que nous fréquentons.

To corrupt Manners, corrompre les Mœurs.

To reform Manners, reformer les Mœurs.

Or thus. As, to learn Manners, to learn good Manners, apprendre la Civilité.

He has no Manners, il n'a point de Civilité.

† To leave no Manners in the Dish, manger tout, ne laisser rien, † donner echec & mat au Plat.

I shall teach you better Manners, je vous apprendrai à vous mieux conduire.

Mannered, as Mannerly.

Mannerliness, Civilité, Vertu qui consiste à ne rien faire & à ne rien dire que d'honnête & de bien à propos dans le Commerce de la Vie.

Where does his Manners ly? où est (en quoi consiste) sa Civilité?

Mannerly, civil, bonnête, bien morigéné.

A very mannerly Child, un Enfant bien morigéné.

He is very mannerly, il est fort civil, fort bonnête, il fait les Choses avec bien de l'honnêteté.

A mannerly Carriage, une Conduite civile, ou bonnête.

† Mannikin, or little Man, un petit Homme, † un bout d'Homme.

Manning, (from the Verb to Man.) See to Man.

Manning, or Days Work, Fournée, le Travail d'un Jour.

In some ancient Deeds, there is a Reserve of so much Rent, and so many Mannings.

Manor, or Manour, Fief, ou Terre Seigneuriale; also as Mainour.

As for the Original of Manours, it seems that in the beginning there was a Circuit of Ground granted by the King to some Baron, or Man of Worth, for Him and his Heirs to dwell upon; and to exercise some Jurisdiction more or less within that Compas, as he thought good to grant; performing such Services, and paying such yearly Rent for the same, as the King required by his Grant. Afterwards it hapned, that this great Man parcelled his Land to other meaner Men, injoyning them such Services and Rents as he thought good. Infomuch that, as he became Tenant to the King, the Inferiours became Tenants to him. According to which which Custom all Lands holden in Fee throughout France are divided into Fiefs and Arriere-Fiefs; whereof the former are such as are immediately granted by the King, and the second such as the King's Feudatories do again grant to others.

In these Days a Manour rather signify's the Jurisdiction and Royalty Incorporeal, than the Land or Site. For a Man may have a Manor in gros (as the Law Terms it) that is, the Right and Interest of a Court-Baron, with the Perquisites thereto belonging, and another or others have every foot of the Land.

A Manour may be compounded of divers Things; as of a Horse, arable Land, Pasture, Meadow, Wood, Rent, Advowson, Court-Baron, and such like. And this ought to be by long Continuance of Time, beyond the Memory of Man. For at this day a Manour cannot be made, because a Court Baron cannot now be made; and a Manour cannot be without a Court Baron, and Suiters or Freeholders, two at the least. For, if all the Free-holds, except one, escheat to the Lord, or if he purchase all, except one, there his Manour is gone, Causa quâ supra; although in common Speech it may be so called.

The Manour-house, la Maison Seigneuriale, la Maison du Seigneur du Fief.

Mansion, or Mannor-house, Maison Seigneuriale.

The Mansion of the Blessed in Heaven, le Séjour des Bienheureux dans le Ciel.

Manlaughter, Meurtre, Homicide, un Meurtre qui ne s'est pas fait de guet à pens, ou de dessein premedité.

Manlaughter is the unlawfull killing of a Man, without prepened malice. As, when two, that formerly meant no harm one to another, meet together; and, upon some sudden Occasion falling out, the one killeth the other.

It differs from Murder, because it is not done with foregoing malice. And from Chance-medley, because it has a present intent to kill. However 'tis Felony, but admitted to the benefit of the Clergy.

Mantle, Manteau; Manteline, 1 Sam. 15. 27.

A Royal Mantle, un Manteau Royal.

The Mantle-tree of a Chimney, Manteau de Cheminée, tout ce qui couvre la Hote de la Cheminée.

To settle a Manufacture, etablir une Manufature.

Manufacturer, One that has undertaken a Manufacture, Celui qui a entrepris quëque Manufature, ou qui a Droit de faire fabriquer quëque Chose.

Manumission, the freeing of a Villain or Slave out of his Bondage, Affranchissement.

The Manner of Manumission, in old time, was thus. The Lord, in the presence of other Persons, took the Bondman by the head, saying, I will that this Man be free, and thereupon shewed him forward out of his hand. But, in the Conquerour's Time, this was the Way of it, as it is here expressed in Latin; Si quis velit Servum suum liberum facere, tradat eum Vicecomiti per manum dextram in pleno Comitatu, quietum illum clamet à Jure Servitutis sue per Manumissionem, & ostendat ei liberas Portas & Vias, & tradat ei libera Arma, scilicet Lanceam & Gladium, deinde liber Homo efficitur.

to Manumit, or to set free, affranchir, mettre en liberté.

Manumitted, or set free, affranchi, mis en liberté.

Manuscript, a written Book, un Manuscrit.

A Manuscript of consequence, un Manuscrit de consequence.

Manworth, the Price (or Value) of a Mans Life or Head, le Prix qu'on mettoit sur chacun.

Of old every Man was rated at a certain Price, according to his quality; which Price was paid to the Lord, in satisfaction for killing him.

Many, good many, great many, plusieurs, grand nombre, grande quantité.

As, to have many Children, avoir plusieurs Enfants, avoir grand nombre d'Enfants.

He has a good many of 'em, il en a grande quantité.

Many are of opinion, plusieurs s'imaginent, il y en a plusieurs qui croient.

Quëquesfois les Anglois mettent après Many un Substantif au Nombre Singulier, avec l'Article Indefini, a ou an.

Comme, many a man, or many an one, plusieurs personnes. Many a time, plusieurs fois.

He bestowed many a kindness on me, il m'a rendu plusieurs bons Services.

To make many Words. See to Make.

How many, combien. See how many there is, voyez combien il y en a.

How many people is there that would be glad on't? combien y en a-t-il qui en seroient ravis?

How many times, combien de fois.

So many, tant, autant.

There are so many Cheats in the World, il y a tant de Trompeurs dans le Monde.

You will find so many, vous en trouverez tant.

I have just so many, j'en ai tout autant.

As many, autant. He hath as many Sisters as Brothers, il a autant de Sœurs que de Freres.

Get as many Souldiers together as you can, ramassez autant de Soldats que vous pourrez.

Too many, trop. We are too many by half, nous sommes trop de la moitié.

Or thus. As, he is too many (that is, he is too strong) for me, il est trop fort pour moi.

Be they never so many, quëque Nombre qu'il y en ait.

Twice as many, deux fois davantage.

Proverbial Expressions.

So many Men, so many Minds, autant de Têtes, autant d'Opinions.

Many Hands make quick Work, l'Ouvrage est bien tôt fait quand on a du Secours.

When many strike on an Anvil, they must strike by measure, quand plusieurs batent sur l'Enclume, il faut qu'ils batent par mesure.

C'est à dire, que, pour réussir dans une Entreprise concertée entre plusieurs personnes, il faut qu'elles agissent de concert.

Many Ventures make a full Freight, souvent on se fait riche en hazardant beaucoup.

Many speak much that can't speak well, la plupart de ceux qui parlent beaucoup parlent mal.

Many without Punishment, none without Sin, personne n'est exempt de Peché, plusieurs le sont du Châtiment.

Many-feet, or Pourcontrol, a sort of Fish, Polype, Poulpe, sorte de Poisson qui a plusieurs piez.

Mare, Cavalle, Jument.

To ride a Mare, monter une Cavalle, ou une Jument.

To cover a Mare, couvrir une Cavalle. A Mare with Fole, Jument pouliniere.

To cry the Mare. This Expression comes from Herefordshire, where they have this ancient Custom, when each Husbandman is reaping the last of his Corn. The Workmen leave a few Blades standing, and tie the tops of 'em together, which is the Mare. Then, standing at a distance, they throw their Sickles at it; and he that cuts the Knot has the Prize. Which done, they cry with a loud Voice, I have her, I have her, I have her. Then follow these Questions and Answers, What have you, what have you, what have you? A Mare, a Mare, a Mare: Whole is she, whole is she, whole is she? J. B. (naming the Owner three times) Whither will you send her? To John a Nokes, naming some Neighbour who has not all his Corn reaped. Then they all shout three times, and so the Ceremony ends with good Cheer. In Yorkshire, upon like Occasion, they have a Harvest-Dance; in Bedfordshire, a Jack and a Gill. Mare-faced, qui a le front plat. As, a mare-faced Horse, un Cheval qui a le front plat.

A Mals for the Dead, la Messe pour les Morts.

All agree that Mals comes from the Latine Missā; but whether Missā be derived from the Hebrew, or be a Latine Word corrupted, is no small Controversy.

They that derive it from the Hebrew conceive it comes from Missab, an Hebrew Word that signifies an Oblation or Offering.

They that take it for a Latine Word corrupted conceive the Fathers used it, instead of Missio, a sending away.

For in ancient Times, when the publick Service was ended, and the Communicants addressed themselves to be partakers of the holy Eucharist, it was a Custom, to send away the younger Sort, such as were not fully instructed and catechised, by saying these Words to them, Ite, Missa est.

Mint is the Place where the King's Coyn is formed, be it Gold or Silver; which is now, and has been for a long time the Tower of London.

The Officers belonging to the Mint have not always been alike; but now they are these. The Warden, who is chief of the rest, and by his Office, to receive the Silver of the Goldsmiths, to pay them for it, and to oversee all the rest belonging to this Function. His Fee is a hundred pound per annum. The Master-Worker, who receiveth the Silver from the Warden, causeth it to be melted, delivers it to the Moniers, and takes it from them again when it is made. His Allowance is not any set Fee, but according to the pound Weight. The third is the Comptroller, who is to see that the Money be made to the just Assise, to oversee the Officers, and comptroll them, if the Money be not as it ought to be. His Fee is a hundred Marks per annum. Then there's the Master of Assay, who weighs the Silver, and sees whether it be according to the Standard. His yearly Fee is also a hundred Marks. Then is the Auditor to take Accounts. The Surveyor of the Melting, who is to see the Silver cast out, and not to be altered after it is delivered to the Melter, which is after the Assay-Master has made trial of it. Mise, a Law-Word used in divers Senses, and come from the French Mise, in the Sense of Expence.

† First it signifies a Gift, or Customary Present, which the People in Wales give to every new King or Prince, at his Entrance into that Principality. The same was formerly given in Cattel. But, when that Dominion was annexed to the English Crown, the Gift was changed into Money; and that is now five thousand pound, or more. Which hapned to be thrice paid, in the Reign of King James I; 1. at his own Coming to the Crown and that Principality, 2. when Prince Henry was created Prince of Wales, 3. when King Charles I. succeeded him in that Principality.

'Tis also a certain Tribute, or Fine of 3000. Marks, which the Inhabitants of the County Palatine of Chester paid at the Change of every Owner of the said Earldom, for the Injoying of their Liberties.

Mises are also taken for Taxes, and sometimes for Costs and Expences. In a Writ of Right, that's call'd Mise, which in all other Actions is called an Issue. So that to joyn the Mise upon the Meer is as much to say, as to joyn the Mise upon the clear Right, that is, to joyn upon this Point, whether has the more Right, the Tenant or Demandant. Lastly, Mise is sometimes corruptly said for Meale, or Messuage.

There's a great Moor, il y a un grand Marais.

Moor, or Black-moor, un Mauve.

Moor-hen, Foulque, Poule d'Eau.

To Moor, amarrer, attacher, ou lier.

As, to moor a Ship, amarrer un Vaisseau.

✠ To Moor a Ship is to lay out her Anchor as may best fit for the safety of the Ship in her Riding at Anchor.

Now there are divers kinds of Mooring. As, to Moor a-crofs, or athwart, that is, to lay out one Anchor on the one side of a River, and another on the other side right against it; so as both Cables may bear together, as well for Ebb as Flood. To Moor alongft, is to lay one Anchor right in the middle of the Stream, and another right a-head.

Which is done, where there is some peril of driving a-shore; because both the Cables will in this posture bear together, and so prevent that Danger, if she should chance to fall in upon either Shore.

To Moor Water-shot, is as it were Quartering in a mean betwixt both the former, as being neither a-crofs the Tide, nor alongft the Tide.

Also, when the Ship is brought into any Place of Riding, the Master and his Mates look out, and observe where, which way, and upon what point of the Compass, the Wind or Sea is likeliest to indanger the Ship most, and there they lay out at Anchor.

Which is termed Mooring for East, or West, or South-East, &c. as the Point is upon which the Ship is moored.

Moored, amarré.

Our Ship was moored, notre Navire étoit amarré.

✠ Tis to be noted, that a Ship is not said to be Moored, unless she have two Anchors at the least on the Ground. And yet, if she have but one Anchor, and a Hawler a-shore, (which is called a Proviso) they will say, that the Ship is moored with her Head to the Shore.

Mooring, Amarrage.

As, the Mooring of Ships, l'Amarrage des Vaisseaux.

Moorish, (from Moor) marécageux.

As, a moorish (or boggy) Place, un Lieu marécageux.

Moot, Dispute en Matière de Droit.

✠ Moot, a Term used in the Inns of Court and Chancery, signifies the handling or arguing a Case for Exercise; as in the Universities there are Disputations, Problems, Sophisms, and such like Acts. It seems to be derived from Mot a Word.

Moot-hall, la Sale où se font les Disputes de Droit.

to Moot, as Lawyers do, disputer de quelque Matière de Droit.

Mootmen, Students that argue Reader's Cases in Houses of Chancery both in Terms and grand Vacations, Etudiants qui disputent du Droit.

✠ Of Mootmen, after some Years Study, are chosen Outward Baristers. Of which Degree, after 12. Years standing, Benchers (or Ancients) are commonly chosen.

Now, of these Benchers, one of the younger Sort reads yearly in Summer-Vacation, and is called a single Reader; and one of the Ancients, that have formerly read, reads in Lent-Vacation, being called a double Reader.

The usual Time between the first and second Reading is Nine or Ten Years. Some of these Readers are afterwards called ad Statum & Gradum Serientis ad Legem, that is, to the Degree of Sergeants at Law; and of those Sergeants are constituted the honourable Judges and Sages of the Law.

For the Entrance of the young Student, who commonly comes from one of the Universities, were first instituted and erected Eight Houses of Chancery, to learn the Elements of the Law. And those are Cliffords Inn, Lions Inn, Clements Inn, Bernards Inn, Staple Inn, Furnivals Inn, Davies Inn, and New Inn. Each of these Houses consists of forty persons, or more. For the Readers, Utter-Baristers, Mootmen, and inferior Students, there are four famous and renowned Colleges, or Inns of Court. And 1. The Inner-Temple, to which the first three Houses of Chancery appertain. 2. Greys-Inn, to which the next two belong. 3. Lincolns-Inn, which enjoys the lastaving one. 4. The Middle-Temple, which hath only the last.

Each of these Houses of Court consist of Benchers, above twenty; of Utter Baristers, above thrice so many; of young Gentlemen, about the Number of 180; who there spend their Time in Study of Law, and commendable Exercises.

The Judges of the Law and Sergeants, being commonly above the Number of Twenty, are equally distributed into two higher and more eminent Houses called Sergeants Inns.

All these are not far distant one from another; and all together make the most famous University for Profession of Law only, or of any one humane Science of the World, and advanceth it self above all others, Quantum inter Vbiurna Cupressus.

Mortmain, Amortissement.

†Mortmain is an Alienation of Lands and Tenements to any Guild, Corporation, or Fraternity. Which is for ever, because Commonalties never die. Therefore it is called Mortmain, from the French mort dead, and main a hand; because such Lands come into a dead Hand, that is into such a Hand as holds them, and is not of power to deliver them, or any thing for them, back again.

Mortuary, sorte de Don qu'on laisse à l'Eglise en mourant.

†Mortuary is a Gift left by a Man at his Death to his Parish-Church, in recompence of

of his personal Tithes and Offerings not duly paid in his Life-time.

A Mortuary is not properly and originally due to an Ecclesiastical Incumbent from any, but those only of his own Parish. But, by Custom in some Places of this Kingdom, they are paid to the Parsons of other Parishes, as the Corps passes through them.

Mortuaries formerly were payable in Beasts; and then the Mortuary was called a Corps present, because the Beast was presented with the Body at the Funeral. In those Times, if a Man had three or more Cattel of any kind, the best was kept for the Lord of the Fee, as a Hariot; and the second was given to the Parson, in right of the Church. But, by a Statute made in the Reign of Henry VIII, a Rate in Money is set down for Mortuaries. Viz. Three Shillings four pence, where the Goods of the Deceased are above the Value of Twenty Nobles, and under Thirty Pound; Six Shillings eight pence, where the Goods exceed Thirty Pound, and under Forty Pound; and Ten Shillings, where the Goods amount above the Value of Forty Pound, &c. These Mortuaries are due but in some particular Places.

O.

L'O se prononce le plus souvent en Anglois, comme en François. Mais il faut le prononcer long, lors qu'il est suivi d'une Consonne avec un e final. Ex. Globe, robe, mode, drone.

Excepté 1. ceux ci, où l'e est conté pour rien; savoir come, tome, done, purpose, Europe.

2. Ces Mots, dont la Terminaison ve prend le Son d'une f; savoir love, glove, dove, above.

Il est vrai qu'il y a bien des Mots où l'o a un Son mêlé de celui de l'a, & où sans scrupule on le peut sonner comme un a.

Cette Prononciation a lieu au commencement de ces Diction; savoir obdurate, object le Subst. obstacle, obstinate, to occupy, odd, of, off, offer, office, oft ou often, olive, omelet, ominous, on, to operate, optative, optick, option, or, oracle, orange, Oratory, Orb, Orchard, order, ordure, organ, orifice, ornament, Orphan, orpiment, orthodox, oscitancy, osprey, ostiary, ostrich, otter, ox, & leurs Derivatifs.

2. En beaucoup d'autres Mots, où l'o finit la premiere ou seconde Syllabe; savoir body, Comedy, Comet, Volume, Impostume, Prophet, honour, honest, modest, Apothecary, foreign, Sophister, Column, Logick, Apostacy, progress, &c.

Entre deux ou trois Consonnes, faisant avec l'o une même Syllabe; comme God, rod, top, hot, box, rock, long, horn, soft, frost, bodkin, border, coffer, cotton, &c. Et il faut remarquer, qu'en ce cas l'o se prononce un peu long dans les Mots finissant en orn; comme horn, corn, thorn, scorn.

De cette Regle il faut excepter, 1. ceux qui finissent en ll, & lt, où l'o se prononce en o long. Ex. roll, toll, bold, cold, gold, bolt, colt. A quoi ajoutez port, sport, fort. Cependant loll & droll se prononcent lall, drall.

2. Les Participes des Verbes finissant en ear à l'Infinitif; comme thorn, worn, des Verbes to shear, to wear.

3. Ces Mots ici, où l'o se prononce long; savoir comb, both, most, ghost, post, roft, toft. Cependant il est bref dans Coxcomb, & dans ces Composés de most, hithermost, furthestmost, uppermost, undermost.

Born se prononce borne, quand il signifie porté; & barn, quand il signifie né. Ainsi form un banc se prononce form; & form forme, farm.

Holy, saint, se prononce hōly; Holy-day, Jour de fête, hōly day.

Mais, outre ces deux Sons généraux de l'o Anglois, il y a des Mots où il se prononce ô. Comme Rome, lose, move, prove, do, to, behoves, tomb, womb, &c.

Yolk, maggot, anchor, women se prononcent yolk, maguet, enker, ouimenn.

En fin, l'o se mange à la fin des Mots qui se terminent avec une Consonne devant on; comme capon, mutton, lesson, reckon, reason, season, apron, citron, saffron, iron.

Il en faut excepter, Son, con, cannon, Sermon, abandon, & quelques autres, où l'o se fait entendre.

Mais l'o est comme muet en fashion, cushion, puncheon, & quelques autres de cette nature.

O, (an Interj.) O, ha! plût à Dieu.
As, O God, O Dieu.
O that we were mindfull of our latter end, ha! que ne faisons nous reflexion sur la fin de nos Jours.
O that we were so happy, plût à Dieu que nous fussions si heureux.
Or thus. As, O sad! quel malheur? O brave, quel bonheur? voilà qui va bien.

O A

Oa sonne comme un o long; Exemple, oak, boat, coach, coat, foam, load, loaf. Excepté ces Mots, où il se prononce en a long; savoir groat, broad, abroad; & celui ci où il se prononce bref, Oat-meal. Loath (l'Adjectif) s'écrit maintenant sans a, & se prononce lath.

Oak, un Chêne, sorte d'Arbre; du Chêne, du bois de Chêne.

The Oak is a hard Tree, whose Body is strait, and which spreads it self very much, le Chêne est un Arbre dur, qui a le Tronc droit, & qui croit en étendue.

Obeissance, as Abaissance.

Or thus. As, 2 Sam. 15. 5. When any Man came nigh to do him Obeissance, quand quelqu'un s'approchoit pour se prosterner devant lui.

Obelisk, un Obélisque.

An Obelisk is a great Square Stone, broad beneath, and waxing smaller towards the top. There were divers of these in Egypt, consecrated in honour of the Sun; and some of 'em of a prodigious height. At Rome likewise there were many of 'em, in the time of the Roman Emperours. There is one now at Arles in Provence, consecrated to the present King of France. The same is 52. foot high, having a Globe upon the point of it, and on the top of the Globe a Sun with this Motto, Nec pluribus Impar.

The Difference between an Obelisk and a Pyramid is this. The Obelisk is all of one intire Stone or Piece, and therefore of no such height as the Pyramids, which are of divers Stones. To which add, that the Obelisk is commonly four square; whereas the Pyramid may be of any other figure.

to Obey, obeir, être obeissant.

As, I shall obey you in all Things without any reserve, je vous obeirai en toutes Choses sans reserve.

☞ Ordael

Ordael was a Purgation practised in ancient Times; whereby the Party purged was counted Expers Criminis. Which was done four manner of Ways, 1. by Camp-fight, not unlike our Duels. 2. By Fire, the Party accused passing blindfold with bare Feet over hot Plough-shares, &c. which therefore was called Fire-Ordael. 3. By putting his Arms up to the Elbows in seething Water, &c; from whence it had the Name of Hot Water Ordael. 4. By being plunged in Cold Water, this being called the Cold Water Ordael, and not unlike the late used Trial of Witches. Ordael (called in Law Purgatio vulgaris) was instituted long before the Conquest, and continued of force in England, till the Reign of King John. In whose Time it was abrogated, and utterly condemned by Pope Stephen the second.

¶ For Parcinary signifies, in a Legal Sense, a holding (or occupying) of Land pro Indiviso, by Joynnt Tenants, otherwise called Coparceners. And, if they refuse to divide their common Inheritance, and chuse rather to hold it joynntly, they are said to hold in Parcinery.

Pardon, pardon, remission, grace; Pardon, Indulgence; pardon, excuse.

As, to ask (or to beg) Pardon, demander Pardon.

To obtain the King's Pardon, obtenir la Grace du Roi.

¶ The Word Pardon is used, in the Common Law, for the remitting (or forgiving) of a Felony, or other Offence, committed committed against the King. And this is twofold; the one by the King, the other by course of Law. The first is granted by the King, in some special regard of the Person, or other Circumstance, upon his Prerogative. And the other is that which the Law in equity affords for a light Offence; as Homicide casual, when one kills another, having no such meaning.

The Pope's Pardons, or Indulgences, les Pardons, ou les Indulgences du Pape.

Sir, I beg your Pardon, Monsieur, je vous demande excuse.

to Pardon, or forgive, pardonner.

Pardon our Iniquities, pardonnez nous nos Offenses.

As, St. James's Park, le Parc de S. Jacques, ou le Parc de Whitehall.

A great, or a little Park, un grand, ou un petit Parc.

✠ A Park signifies a Piece of Ground Inclosed, and stored with wild Beasts of Chase, which a Man may have by Prescription, or the King's Grant. It differs from a Chase, or Warren, in that it must be Inclosed. For, if a Park ly open, 'tis a good Cause of Seizure into the hands of the King, as a Thing forfeited. And so is a free Chase, if it be Inclosed. Besides that the Owner cannot have an Action against such as hunt in his Park, if it ly open. Henry I. had a Park at Woodstock, wherein were Lyons, Leopards, Camels, &c. brought thither from foreign Parts.

✠ The Parliament of England is at this day the greatest Assembly of the Kingdom; consisting of the King, and the Three Estates of the Realm, viz. the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal, and the Commons, for the debating of Matters touching the Commonwealth, especially the making and altering of Laws. Of which Court of Parliament an eminent Author gives this fair Description; Si Vestitatem spectes, est antiquissima; si Dignitatem, est honoratissima; si Jurisdictionem, capacissima. In an ancient Charter of King John, it is called Commune Concilium Regni. Nullum (says he) Scutagium vel Auxilium penam in Regno nostro, nisi per Commune Concilium Regni nostri. The Brittons indeed had no such Assemblies. But the Saxons had something like it; as will appear from King Ina's Laws, who flourished Anno 712. Consilio (says he) & Documento Cœnæ Patri mei, Hedde & Erkenwoldi Episcoporum meorum, omniumque Aldermannorum meorum, & seniorum Sapientum Populi mei, magnâ etiam Servorum Dei frequentia. But, to come a little nearer, William the Conquerour divided this Land among his Followers in such manner, that every one of them should hold their Lands of him in Capite. And they again distributed Part thereof among their Friends and Servants; who, for the same, were bound to do them Suit and Service in their Courts. The Chief of these were called Barons; who thrice every Year assembled at the King's Court, viz. at Christmas, Easter, and Whitsuntide. Amongst whom the King was wont to come, in his Royal Robes, and the Crown on his Head, Ad consulendum de arduis Regni Negotiis, to consult about the publick Affairs of the Kingdom. Afterwards Henry I. (say some) began, in the sixteenth Year of his Reign, to summon the Commons, and that to the great Council at Salisbury.

But, besides this Supreme Court, there are other inferior Parliaments. The Abbot of Croyland was wont to call a Parliament of his Monks, to consult about the Affairs of his Monastery. And at this day the Societies of the two Temples, or Inns of Courts, do call that Assembly a Parliament, wherein they consult of the Common Affairs of their Several Houses.

The long (or triennial) Parliament, le Parlement qui fut convoqué pour trois Ans sous le Regne de Charles I.

The Ten Parliaments of France, les dix Parlements de France.

Peace, Paix, repos, tranquillité; Paix, reconciliation; Silence.

As, the God of peace, le Dieu de paix. To live in peace, vivre en paix.

He that will live in peace and rest must hear, and see, and say the best, (Prov.) si tu veux vivre en paix, tu n'as qu'à écouter, & voir ce qui se passe, sans t'émouvoir.

A Justice of Peace, un Juge (ou Justicier) de Paix, Juge établi pour prendre Connoissance de ceux qui commettent des Desordres, ou qui violent la Paix.

To bind one to the Peace, obliger quelqu'un dans les formes, & sous Caution, de ne faire (ou procurer) aucune Violence à la Personne qui a porté ses Plaintes contre lui.

Ce qui se pratique souvent en Angleterre, lors qu'une Personne a menacé une autre; & que celle-ci prête Serment devant un Juge de Paix, qu'elle ne se croit pas en seureté de sa Vie.

The Word Peace, in the Sense of the Law, intends a quiet and harmless Behaviour towards the King and his People.

And, if any Man goes in danger of Harm, or bodily Prejudice, from another, and makes Oath of it before a Justice of Peace, he shall be secured by good Bond, which is called Binding to the Peace. The Law calls also Time of Peace, when the Courts of Justice are open; when the Judges and Ministers of the same may by Law protect Men from Wrong and Violence, and administer Justice to all.

Peace of God and the Church, Was anciently used for that Rest and Cessation which the King's Subjects had from Trouble and Suit of Law between the Terms.

Peace of the King, Is that Peace and Security, both for Life and Goods, which the King promiseth to all his Subjects, or others taken to his Protection. The Peace of the King's High-Way, Is to be free from all Annoyance or Molestation. The Peace of the Plough, Is that whereby the Plough and Plough-Cattle are secured from Distresses. So Fairs may be said to have their Peace, because no Man in them may be troubled for any Debt elsewhere contracted. Lastly, there is the Peace of the Church, otherwise called Sanctuary; for which see Sanctuary.

Peer, un Pair; un Mole.

As, a Peer of the Realm, un Pair du Royaume.

En Angleterre tous ceux qui composent la Chambre Haute du Parlement, savoir les

Archevêques & Evêques, les Ducs, Marquis,

Comtes, Vicomtes, & Barons, sont Pairs du

Royaume. De là vient que cette Chambre est aussi appelée la Chambre des Pairs. Et, quoique le Mot de Peer tire apparemment son Origine de Pair; cependant le Nombre des Pairs d'Angleterre n'est pas limité comme en France, le Roi d'Angleterre étant en pouvoir d'en créer plus ou moins, comme bon lui semble. Outre que le Titre de

Pair est attribué, avec quelque Raison, à tous les Seigneurs du Parlement; quoiqu'ils

soient distingués par differens Titres ou

Degrez d'Honneur.

To be tried by his Peers, être jugé par ses Pairs, ou par ses Egaux. C'est ainsi que se font les Procès Criminels en Angleterre, les Pairs du Royaume n'étant jugés que par

des Jurez de la Chambre des Pairs, & tous ceux qui sont au dessous de la qualité de

Pair par des Jurez tirez des Communes.

In this Respect, the Word Peers figuifies, in the Common Law, Those that are Impannelled in an Inquest upon any Man, for the Convicting or Clearing him of any Offence, for which he is called in question. And the Reason of it is, because the Course and Custom of this Nation is to try every Man in such case by his Equals or Peers. 'Tis true the Word is chiefly used for those that be of the Nobility of the Realm, and Lords of the Parliament.

For, though there be a Distinction of Degrees amongst them, yet in all publick

Actions they are equal; as in their Votes in Parliament, and in passing in Trial upon any Nobleman, &c.

The Peer of Dover, le Mole de Douvre.

A Peer is a Fortress made against the Force of the Sea, for better Security of Pharisaism, the Religion or Profession of the Pharisees, la Religion ou Profession des Pharisiens.

Pharisee, Pharisien, un de la Secte des Pharisiens.

The Pharisees were a Jewish Sect, which began at the same time with the Sadducees, that is about 300. Years before Christ's Nativity. They were called Pharisees, from the Word Pharez, which signifies to Separate. For they were Separated, 1. to the Study of the Law of God. 2. From the rest of Mankind, by a more strict Profession of Sanctity. 3. From the Society and Conversation of others, which they thought not so pure as themselves. 4. By their particular Habit, having a Garb to themselves which no others had, and wearing their Phylacteries of a broader size than others did. They were the Master-wits in the Arts of Mischief, and Men of such a perfect, and concocted Malice, that they were almost able to possess the Devil. Their Hypocrisy was particularly taken notice of, and threatned by our Saviour. They believed the Pythagorean Metempsychosis, or Transmigration of Souls; affirming, that the Soul of a righteous Man passed from one at the time of his Death into another. And accordingly they fancied our Saviours Body had been animated with the Soul of Elias, John the Baptist, Jeremy, or some other Prophet.

God cannot indure a Pharisee, that says and does not, with his Disciples Saying and Doing must not be two Mens Offices, Dieu ne sauroit souffrir un Pharisien qui promet beaucoup & qui ne fait rien. il ne pretend pas que parmi ses Disciples Promettre une Chose & la Faire soient partagez entre deux.

Now, to remember the Order of the Planets, as to their several Height, or Distance from us, here's a ready Way, either in Latine or English, in these following Verses.

Post SIM SUM sequitur, ultima Luna subest.

If you will count the Planets soon, Remember SIM SUM, and the Moon.

Where the Letters of S I M denote Saturn, Jupiter, Mars; S U M, the Sun, Venus, Mercury. To which adding the Moon, the lowest Planet of all, you have your full Number.

The Figures, whereby these Planets are usually represented by Astrologers, are these. Viz.

Saturn, ♄.
Jupiter, ♃.
Mars, ♂.
Sol, ☉.
Venus, ♀.
Mercury, ☿.

Frank Pledge. See Frank.

to Pledge, or pawn, engager, mettre en gage.

To pledge one drinking, faire raison à celui qui boit à nous.

Ile pledge you, je vous ferai raison.

The Original of this Expression is thus. When the Danes bore sway in this Land, they did so tyrannize over the Natives, that when a Native was drinking, a Dane would sometimes stab him with a Dagger, or Knife. Which so daunted the Natives, that, to secure their Lives, they would not drink in Company, unless some one present would be their Pledge or Surety, that they should receive no hurt, whilst they were in their Draught. Hence that usual Phrase, Ile pledge you, that is, Ile be a Pledge or Surety for you. Others will have the Ground of this Expression to be thus. That, if the Party drunk to was not disposed to drink himself, he was to get a Pledge to do it for him; or else, the Party that began would take it ill.

A peaceable Possession, une paisible Possession.

Possession is eleven Points of the Law, Celui qui est en possession, de douze Points du Droit il en a onze. C'est à dire, qu'il est mal aisé de dessaisir une Personne qui est en possession.

¶ Now Possession is twofold, Actual, and in Law. Actual Possession is, when a Man actually enters into Lands, and Tenements to him descended. Possession in Law is, when Lands or Tenements are descended to a Man, and he has not as yet actually entered into them. As for example, Before or untill an Office be found of Lands escheated by an Attainder, the King has only a Possession in Law, and not indeed.

There is also an Unity of Possession, which the Civilians call Consolidationem. As if the Lord purchase the Tenancy held by Heriot Service, then the Heriot is extinct by Unity of Possession ; that is, because the Lordship and the Tenancy be now in one Mans possession.

He has great Possessions in our Territory, il a de grandes Possessions dans notre Territoire.

Possessive, possessif, qui marque quelque possession.

As, a Pronoun possessive, un Pronom possessif.

Possess. See Possessed.

Possiet. C'est une Potion à l'Angloise, dont le grand Usage est par rapport à la Médecine.

A plain Possiet, un Possiet simple, où il n'y a point d'Herbes medecinales, ni d'Ingrédients qui flatent l'Appetit. Ce n'est proprement que du petit Lait, ou du Lait clarifié de cette maniere. On met du Lait sur le feu, & dans le moment qu'il commence à bouillir, on y jette une Proportion d'Ale ou petite biere, qui le fait d'abord cailler. On ôte le Caillé, & le Clair qui demeure est ce qu'on appelle Possiet. Potion qu'on donne en Angleterre ordinairement à ceux qui prennent Médecine, ou Vomitif, après la premiere Operation de l'une ou de l'autre.

C'est la Tisane d'Angleterre, en cas de Fievre. Mais alors on y fait d'ordinaire bouillir quelque Ingredient salubre, comme de la Sauge, de la Corne de Cerf, &c ; & on y mêle un peu de Sucre, quand on le donne au Malade. En ce cas on distingue le Possiet par le Nom de l'Ingredient medecinal qu'on y met. Ainsi, si c'est de la Sauge, on l'appelle Sage-Possiet ; si c'est de la Corne de Cerf, Harts-horn-Possiet ; & ainsi du reste.

Il s'en fait d'une autre sorte pour ceux qui se portent bien, & qui sert mêmes à fortifier la Nature. C'est le Sack-possiet, qui s'appelle ainsi, parce qu'il se fait avec du Vin des Canaries. Celui ci se fait avec de la Crème, qu'on fait bouillir avec de la Muscade, ou de la fleur de muscade. En suite on y met une bonne quantité d'Oeufs bien battus, la moitié moins du blanc que du jaune ; puis on le remet sur le feu, jusqu'à ce qu'il bouille. Cela fait, on le tire du feu, on le laisse reposer pendant quelque tems, & en fin on y mêle une certaine quantité de Vin des Canaries, avec du Sucre. Viola de quoi on regale ordinairement les nouveaux Mariés, pour les rendre d'autant plus actifs dans les Exercices d'Amour.

Possibility, or likelihood, possibilité.

I don't question in the least the possibi-ty of the Thing, je ne doute point de la possibilité du Fait.

Possible, or likely, that may be, possible, qui peut arriver.

Prætor, a kind of Magistrate (not unlike a Lord Chief Justice) amongst the ancient Romans, Preteur, sorte de Magistrat parmi les anciens Romains.

At first there was only two Prætors, the one called Prætor Urbanus and Prætor major, who judged of Matters within the City, between Citizen and Citizen; and the other Prætor peregrinus, or Prætor minor, who decided Controversies between Forreiners. The Reason of which Institution was, because the Consuls, being taken up in Wars, had no time to administer Justice; and therefore these two new Officers were created. Whose Number did at last increase to eighteen.

The Prætors House, Pretore, l'Hôtel du Preteur.

Prætorian, of (or belonging to) a Prætor, Pretorien, de Preteur.

As, a Prætorian Family, Famille Pretorienne.

Prætorian Authority, Autorité Pretorienne, ou de Preteur.

The Prætorian Gard, la Garde Pretorienne.

This Gard, first established by Augustus, consisted of Ten thousand Souldiers, every one having double the Wages of a Legionary Souldier. They were in the same nature to the Roman Emperours as the Janizaries are to the Grand Seigneur, or as the Mammelukes were to the Sultans of Egypt.

Prætorship, the Prætors Office, Preture, Charge & Dignité de Preteur.

Pragmatical, pragmatique.

The Pragmatical Sanction, pragmatique Sanction, la Pragmatique.

to Prank up, parer, orner.

She does nothing but prank up her self, elle ne songe qu'à se bien parer.

We should do well to prank up our Infides a little better, and let the Body shift; this World is a Place of toil and labour, and Men go not to work in their best Clothes, au lieu de parer notre Corps, nous ferions bien mieux d'orner l'Âme; ce Monde est un Lieu de Fatigue, & pour travailler on ne met pas son meilleur Habit.

Pranking up, l'action de parer, ou d'orner; beaux Habits, & braverie.

I hate this pranking up, je ne puis souffrir cette Passion que l'on a de se parer.

Prankt up, paré, orné, bien mis.

She is finely pranked up, elle est parfaitement bien mise.

to Prate, causer, & babiller, & caqueter.

Hold your Tongue, what d'ye prate for? taisez vous, pourquoi causez vous?

Prating, babil, & caquet.

A prating Man, un Causeur, & un Babillard.

A prating Woman, une Causeuse, & une Babillarde, & une Caqueteuse, une Femme qui a du babil.

Pratique, or Prattick, a Licence to traffick.

Pratique, Commerce, Communication, Permission de negocier.

Thus, in the Ports of Italy and the Streights, if the Master of the Ship brings a Bill of Health, that is a Certificate that the Place whence he came is not in-fectured with any contagious Disease; then the chief Magistrate, or the Signers of Health, grant him Pratique, that is, leave to come in, converse, and traffick. But, if the Place whence he comes be infected, then he is to stay forty Days on Ship-board, for better clearing himself of all Danger of Infection.

to Prattle, as to Prat.

A fervent Prayer, une Priere ardente, ou fervente.

The Lord's Prayer, l'Oraison Dominicale.

To go to Prayers, aller aux Prieres. To be at Prayers, être aux Prieres.

God will hear our Prayers, he will yield to our Prayers, Dieu exaucera nos Prieres, se laissera vaincre à nos Prieres.

Prayer is like Jacobs Ladder, whereon the Soul goes up to God, and confers with him, la Priere est comme l'Echelle de Jacob, par le moyen de laquelle nous avons communication avec Dieu.

Care not how long, or how loud thy Prayer be, but how hearty; a Sigh or a Groan that cannot be uttered goes beyond a long Prayer with Ostentation, with God a Pharisiee, Dieu ne demande pas des Prieres de longue haleine ou qui retentissent dans l'Air, mais il veut qu'elles soient sinceres & qu'elles partent du Cœur; un Soupir muet, un Elan vaut mieux qu'une longue Priere accompagnée d'Ostentation; Dieu prefere toujours un Pèger à un Pharisien.

Or thus. As, to say his Prayers, prier Dieu.

A Prayer-book, un Livre de Prieres.

A Common-Prayer-book, une Liturgie, un Livre de Prieres publiques.

Praying, priere, ou l'action de prier.

This Word is used, in Schools, for a Reward given to that Scholar that says his Lesson, or performs his Exercise well. And, among Merchants, it is used for that Sum of Money, as Eight or Ten per Cent, which the Insured gives the Insurer, for Insuring the safe Return of any Ship or Merchandize.

to Premonish, or fore-warn, *avertir par avance.*Premonished, or fore-warned, *averti par avance.*Premonition, *avertissement qu'on donne (ou qu'on a donné) par avance.*Premunire, *Inconvenient.*As, to run himself into a Premunire, tomber dans quelque Inconvenient.

This is an usual Phrase, applied to one that takes a course to involve himself into Troubles. The Original whereof you will find in the Law; where to Incur a Premunire signifies to Incur the same Punishment which is inflicted on those that transgress a Statute made in the Reign of Richard the Second, commonly called the Statute of Premunire. Whereby the Pope's Usurpation, in the disposing of the best Livings in England, was curbed and restrained; the Punishment of those that offended against this Act being no less than the Loss of the King's Protection, a Forfeiture of their Lands, Tenements, Goods, Chattels, &c.

As to the Etymology of this Word Premunire, some attribute it to the Strength given to the Crown by the foresaid Statute and others to the same purpose, against the Usurpation of a foreign Power. But others think it may be deduced from the Latine Verb Pramonere, being barbarously turned into Pramunire. Which Corruption is taken from the rude Interpreters of the Canon Law, who indeed do many times put the effect Pramunire for the sufficient Cause Pramonere, according to the old Proverb, Fore-warned fore-armed. Of which a Reason may be gathered from the form of the Writ, Pramunire facias prefatum Prepositum & I. R. Procuratorem, &c. quod tunc sint coram nobis, &c. Which Words can be referred to none but the Parties charged with the Offence.Prentice, or Apprentice, *un Apprentif, une Apprentisse.*He has got two or three Prentices, *il a deux ou trois Apprentifs.*She is my Prentice, *elle est mon Apprentisse.*Or thus. By the Kings Prerogative is meant that special Power, Privilege, or Pre-eminence, which the King hath over and above other Persons, and above the ordinary Course of the Common Law, in the Rights of his Crown. For the King hath many Rights of Majesty peculiar to himself, which the Learned in the Law call Sacred and Inseparable.

The Prerogative of the Bishops of Canterbury and York, la Prerogative des Archevêques de Cantorbéry & York.

'Tis an especial Pre-eminence that these Sees have, in certain Cases, above ordinary Bishops within their Province.

The Prerogative Court, la Cour de la Prerogative. C'est ainsi qu'on appelle la Cour de l'Archevêque de Cantorbéry où l'on vérifie les Testaments.Thus is called the Court, wherein all Wills be proved, and all Administrations taken, that belong to the Archbishop of Canterbury, by his Prerogative. That is, in case where the Deceased had Goods of any considerable value out of the Diocese wherein he died; and that Value is ordinarily five Pound, except it be otherwise by Composition between the said Archbishop and some other Bishop, as in the Diocese of London it is ten Pound. And, if any Contention grow between Two, or more, touching any such Will or Administration, the Cause is properly debated and decided in this Court. The Judge whereof is termed Judex Curia Prerogative Cantuariensis, the Judge of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury. The Archbishop of York hath also the like Court, under the Name of his Exchequer, but far inferior to this in Power and Profit.Presage, Sign, or Omen, *Presage, Augure, Signe d'une Chose à venir.*As, an ill Presage, *un mauvais Presage.*to Presage, or signify before hand, *presager, donner quelque Presage.*That presaged the Ruin of the Town, *cela presageoit la Ruine de la Ville.*Presaged, or signify'd before hand, *presagé.*Presbyter, or Lay-Elder, *un Ancien, Ancien d'une Eglise.*Presbyterian, *un Presbyterien, une Presbyterienne.*The Presbyterians of England, *les Presbyteriens d'Angleterre.*They are so called from the Greek πρεσβύτερος, Elder, because they admit of Lay-Elders into their Church-Government.

Ces Messieurs ne different de l'Eglise Nationale qu'en trois Points principalement. Ils rejettent le Gouvernement Episcopal, les Ceremonies de l'Eglise, & les Formulaires de Prières. Jusques là qu'il s'en trouve parmi eux d'assez temeraires, pour improuver l'Usage de l'Oraison Dominicale. Cependant depuis peu la plupart étoient rentrez de leur propre mouvement dans le Sein de l'Eglise Anglicane, & y faisoient leur Devotion avec une grande apparence de Zele. Un Vent a soulé, qui les a presque tous ramenez à leurs Principes; hormis qu'ils semblent n'avoir plus tant d'horreur pour le Papisme qu'ils en avoient autrefois, & qu'ils commencent à s'approprier. On croit néanmoins, malgré tous ces Changemens, qu'ils sont encore Protestans dans le fond.

This Word is also used Adjectively. As, when we say,

The Presbyterian Party, *le Parti Presbyterien.*The Presbyterian Party in England is very considerable, *le Parti Presbyterien est fort considerable en Angleterre.*Presbytery, *la Religion des Presbyteriens.*Prescience, or fore-knowledge, *Prescience.*As, God's Prescience, la Prescience de Dieu. C'est une Connoissance antérieure que Dieu a du Destin de toutes les Creatures raisonnables, &c.

To presfs one to Death, presser quelqu'un jusqu'à ce que la Mort s'ensuive. C'est un genre de Supplice en Angleterre, affecté à ceux qui refusent de répondre aux Accusations qu'on a formées contre eux, & qui demeurent muets. C'est ce que la Loi d'Angleterre appelle Peine forte & dure, & que je trouve ainsi décrite par un Auteur Anglois, dont voici les propres Termes.

It signifies a special Punishment for those that, being arraigned of Felony, refuse to put themselves upon the ordinary Trial of God and the Country, and thereby are mute by the Interpretation of the Law. The Party which is under these Circumstances is sent back to the Prison whence he came, and laid in some low dark Houfe; where he must lye naked on the Earth, without any Litter, Rushes, or other Cloathing, and without any Rayment about him, but only Something to cover his privy Members. There he must lye upon his Back, one Arm being drawn to one Quarter of the Houfe with a Cord, and the other Arm to another Quarter, the same Thing being done with his Legs. Then is laid upon his Body Iron and Stone as much as he may bear, or more. The next Day he has given him three Morfels of Barley-bread, without Drink. The second Day he has Drink three times, and as much at each Time as he can drink of the Water next unto the Prison (except it be running Water) without any Bread. 'Tis but a meer presumption, c'est une pure presumption, conjecture, ou supposition.

There are three Sorts of Presumption, in Law; viz. Violent, Probable, and Slight.

A violent Presumption is many times a full Proof. As, if one be killed in a House, and a Man is seen to come out of the House with a bloody Sword, and no other Person was at that time in the House, this Presumption stands for a Proof. So, in case of a Charter or Feoffment, if all the Witnesses to the Deed be dead, the violent Presumption, which stands for a Proof, is continual and quiet Possession. Probable Presumption has but a small effect. And a Slight Presumption is of no prevalency at all.

Presumption, or pride, is an immoderate Hope, proceeding from too great an Opinion one hath of his Ability, la Presumption est une Esperance immodérée, qui vient de la trop grande Opinion qu'on a de ses forces.

Thus are called those who are chosen and appointed to appear for the Cathedral, or other Collegiate Churches, as also for the Common Clergy of every Diocess at the Parliament, to fit in the Lower House of Convocation. The Manner of their Election is thus. First, the King directs his Writ to the Archbishop of each Province, for the summoning of all Bishops, Deans, Arch-Deacons, Cathedral and Collegiate Churches, and generally of all the Clergy of his Province, assigning them the Time and Place in the said Writ. Then the Archbishops proceed, according to Custom. As for Example, the Archbishop of Canterbury, upon his Writ received, directs his Letter to the Bishop of London, as his Dean Provincial.

Wherein he cites himself peremptorily, and then willeth him to cite in like manner the Parties aforesaid against the Day prefixed in the Writ; but directeth withall, that One Proctor be sent for every Cathedral or Collegiate, and Two for the Body of the inferior Clergy of each Diocess.

And, by virtue of these Letters authentically sealed, the said Bishop of London directs his like Letters severally to the Bishop of every Diocess of the Province, citing them in like sort, and to the same purpose as aforesaid; and also willing them to certify to the Archbishop the Names of all and every so warned by them, in a Schedule annexed to their Letter Certificatory. The Bishops proceed accordingly; the Cathedral and Collegiate Churches, and also the Clergy make choice of their Proctors. Which done, and certify'd to the Bishop, he returneth all at the Day. These Proctors of the Clergy had heretofore Place and Suffrage in the Commons House of Parliament.

In the West of England they call Proctor him that gathers the Fruits of a Benefice for another Man.

To keep his Property, or Right, conserver sa Propriété, cd. le Droit qui nous appartient en propre.

Our Properties, nos Biens.

He has invaded no man's Property, il n'a violé les Droits de personne.

Property is the highest Right that a Man hath, or can have in any Thing, and no ways depending upon another Man's Courtesy. Which none in England can be said to have in any Lands or Tenements, but only the King, in the Right of his Crown; because the Lands throughout the Realm are in the nature of Fee, and hold either mediately or immediately of the Crown. This Word nevertheless is used for that Right in Lands and Tenements that common Persons have, because it imports as much as Utile Dominium, though not directum. And there are three Manners of Rights of Property, that is Property absolute, Property qualified, and Property possessory.

Must I be made a Property (or stalking Horse) to your Designs? faut il que je sois votre Dupe? ne vous servez vous de moi que pour venir à bout de vos Desseins?

He was but their Property, il n'étoit que leur Joüet.

His Business prosper, ses Affaires prosperent.

Every Thing prospers (or succeeds) well with him, tout lui réussit, il réussit en tout ce qu'il entreprend.

If any Thing prosper well with one, we are apt to attribute it all to his wise Conduct; and, if it fall out otherwise, we presently lay it to the want thereof, si quelque chose réussit bien à quelqu'un, nous disons qu'il a eu beaucoup de sagesse & de prudence; & s'il arrive au contraire, nous l'accusons aussi tôt d'avoir manqué de conduite.

Or thus. As, prosper them with all Happiness, comble les de toute sorte de Bonheur.

Prosperity, happiness, prosperité, bonheur.

To live in prosperity, vivre dans la prosperité. To live in great prosperity, être dans une grande prosperité.

I wish you all prosperity, je vous souhaite toute sorte de bonheur, ou de prosperité.

Prosperity is like all Wine, it makes drunk the Soul; and therefore God mingles it, that he may keep us sober, la Prosperité est comme du Vin pur, qui enivre l'Âme; quand Dieu le trempe, c'est pour nous tenir dans les Regles de la Sobriété.

It is good in Prosperity to make room for Adversity, that it may not come unlookt for, and that we may be the better provided, if it do come, il est bon dans la Prosperité de s'attendre à l'Adversité, afin que s'il nous arrive d'y tomber nous n'en soyons pas surpris, & qu'étant préparés nous puissions nous relever par une fermeté d'Esprit.

Prosperity is a great Enemy to Goodness, and the Gospel tells us, how hardly those which have Riches enter into the Kingdom of Heaven; Israel, that pray'd in Egypt, quarrell'd in the Wilderness; when they were at their Brick-kills they would be at their Devotion, and no sooner are they at ease but they are wrangling for their Flesh-pots, la Prosperité est une grande Enemie de la Piété, & l'Evangile nous dit en en termes exprès combien il est difficile à un Homme riche d'entrer au Royaume du Ciel; les Israelites, si humiliez en Egypte, devinrent querelleux & retifs dans le Desert; pendant qu'ils faisoient des Briques ils étoient à leur Devotion, des qu'ils se virent à leur aise ils commencerent à murmurer pour leurs Potées de Chair.

It is a hard matter not to find Poverty a Burden, or Prosperity a Snare, la Pauvreté est un Fleau, & la Prosperité un Piège parmi la plupart des Hommes.

to Protest, protester, promettre, asseurer; protester, en parlant de Lettres de Change; protester, ou se plaindre.

As, I protest, it is not I, je vous proteste, que ce n'est pas moi. He protested to me that he would not do it, il m'a protesté, qu'il ne le feroit pas.

To protest a Bill of Exchange, protester une Lettre de Change.

As for Exemple, I give Mony to a Merchant in France, taking his Bill of Exchange to be repaid in England, by one whom he assigneth. If, at my Coming, I find not my self Satisfy'd, but either delay'd or deny'd, then I go to the Exchange, or other open Concourse of Merchants, and protest that I am not paid. And thereupon, if he hath any Goods remaining in any Man's hand within the Realm, the Law of Merchants is, that I be paid out of them to his full Satisfaction.

To protest against the Proceeding of a Judge, &c. protester contre la Procédure d'un Juge, &c.

Purgation, Maniere de se purger de quelque Crime.

Purgation is the Clearing a Man's self of a Crime, whereof he is generally suspected, and of the same accused before a Judge. Anciently there was a Vulgar Purgation, by Fire, or Water, or by Combat, used both by Infidels and Christians, till it was abolished by the Canon Law. Only Combat may be still practised, by the Laws of the Realm, in doubtful Cases, or if the Defendant chuse rather the Combat than other Trial. But now there is a standing Purgation, called Canonical; and observed for Matters pertaining to the Ecclesiastical Courts, as Suspicion (or common Fame) of Incontinency, or such like. The Form whereof is usually thus. The Man suspected takes his Oath, that he is clear of the Fault objected; and brings so many of his honest Neighbours, being not above Twelve, as the Court shall assign him, to swear upon their Consciences and Credulity, that he sweareth truly.

Quaker, Trembleur.

The Quakers Sect, la Secte des Trembleurs.

The Quakers Religion, la Religion des Trembleurs.

& The Quakers are a modern Sect, not much differing from the old Enthusiasts.

They took Name from their Quaking, or Trembling, when in their Raptures and Enthusiasts they vainly pretend the Spirit of God comes upon them. A meer effect of Melancholy. Infatuated with these pretended Inspirations, they reject the holy Orders, all set Forms of Prayer, and premeditated Preaching. Both Men and Women, the Unlearned as well as the Learned, are equally admitted to teach in their Congregations; and whosoever pretends himself first Inspired is free to take it upon him. And when all is done, it proves most commonly but according to the Teacher's natural Ability, that is with little of sound Reason, and less of the Spirit. Christians they may be called, because they believe in Christ; but, as they use no Sacraments, they are but half Christians.

In point of Society, they think one Man as good as another, which is a sure Foundation to fantastick Anarchy. Accordingly they affect to Thou all Persons indifferently, Princes as well as Coblers; and, having raised themselves above the Sphere of common Civility, shew Respect to no Man, though they love it well enough from Men of other Principles. Little could be said against the Plainness of their Garb, if Pride did not lurk under it. And their abstaining from the Madness of Swearing were very commendable, if they did not exclude the lawfull Use of Oaths imposed by the Magistrate. The Yea and Nay of the Gospel they take Literally, and what they think fit besides, Mytically. The Reputation they gained in the World of being Just in their Dealings, I hope is not groundless; though there are some unlucky Men who endeavour to check it, by representing them as a subtle and crafty Generation. One Thing they are to be admired for, if true; that, being smitten, they bear it patiently, and without any return. But I question whether it were safe to try it; and I am apt to think, in such a Case, the Flesh would go near to war against the Spirit.

† The Rogation-Week is the next but one before Whitfunday, on the Thursday whereof is celebrated Christ's glorious Ascension into Heaven. This Week is so called from the Latine Rogatio, signifying a Supplication; because the Church was wont in this Week to request and supplicate the Blessing of God upon the Fruits of the Earth. Which the Roman Heathens performed in their Way, in those Feasts Feasts called Ambarvalia, quod Victima Arva ambiret, and kept in the Month of May.

The Dutch call this the Crofs-Week; because, when the Priests went on Procession this Week (as they do still in the Roman Church) the Crofs was carried before them. In the North of England it is called Gang-Week, or Gang-Tide, from the Word Gang, which (as in the old Saxon) signifies to go, and that from the old Way of going on Procession that Week. But in the Inns of Court, it has got the Name of Grasse-week; because the Commons of that Week consist much of Sallets, hard Eggs, and green Sauce upon some of the Days.
